SC meeting 12.3.2026.

Project partners discussed the progress of the online programme and upcoming project activities. The programme currently includes 45 active students, with more than 20 successfully completing Module 1 and 13 students completing the first assignment in Module 2. Preparations for the BIP activities, Learning Expeditions, and the final conference in Split are progressing according to plan.

Within WP3 and WP4, partners focused on evaluating interventions, adapting them to different cultural contexts using design thinking approaches, and preparing pilot activities with older adults. Students will also contribute recommendations for future implementation, while development of the project's open-access platform continues.

“Inspirational Day” as part of the HEAL4ALL project

Project partner KU Leuven organised an Inspirational Day focused on wellbeing in later life, bringing together students, professionals, older adults, and carers for a day of reflection and exchange.

The programme featured inspiring contributions, including insights from Dirk De Wachter on vulnerability and “the small good,” as well as discussions on existential empathy and storytelling in care.

SC meeting 9.4.2026.

During the online meeting, partners reviewed the implementation of the online programme, where 45 students are actively participating. Module 2 is progressing smoothly, while Module 3 has already started.

Discussions also covered evaluation activities, the preparation of a scientific publication, and the development of immersive training activities and a database of good practice examples. Preparations for the Learning Expeditions are ongoing, despite challenges related to rising travel costs, and partners confirmed the next project tasks and deadlines.

Heal4All Presented at ISW Staff Week 2026 in Lisbon

Prof. Irena Drmić Hofman, Heal4All project coordinator, participated in the ISW Staff Week 2026 held at Instituto Superior Técnico Lisboa in Lisbon from 4–8 May 2026, which gathered around 150 participants from 28 countries. The event focused on international cooperation, exchange of good practices, and professional development in higher education internationalization.

As part of the “Good Practices Session”, Prof. Drmić Hofman delivered a presentation and dissemination activity for the Heal4All project entitled “Heal4ALL: Transforming Healthcare Education through Existential Well-being”. The presentation introduced the project’s objectives and innovative approaches in healthcare education, while also promoting international collaboration and knowledge exchange among participating institutions.

Preparations for learning expedition underway

Preparations for the upcoming Heal4All learning expeditions are currently underway, as partner universities continue coordinating activities for students participating in the international programme. The project teams are finalising the organisation of learning expedition, where students will engage in interdisciplinary workshops, practical caregiving activities, and intercultural exchange focused on existential well-being in older adults.

Alongside the preparation of the expeditions, work is progressing on the HEAL4ALL online course, which will provide students with innovative learning materials, interactive assignments, and collaborative activities designed to strengthen professional competencies in existential caregiving and holistic healthcare practice.
